

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments ix

I: Setting the Scene

Introduction 3

Katherine Spring

1. Reinventing The Classical Hollywood Cinema,
Over and Over 19

David Bordwell

II: Film Style and Practice

2. The Center and the Swirl: Vincente Minnelli's
Decorative Virtuosity 39

Scott Higgins

3. Resettling the Score: Musical Recycling in the Hollywood Studio System 49

Kathryn Kalinak

4. Hollywood Mannerism 59

Chris Cagle

III: Classical Genres

5. Trading on Songs: The Emergence of the Film Musical as a Genre Label 73

Katherine Spring

6. Another Hollywood Picture? A Star Is Born (1937)
and the Self-Reflexivity of the Backstudio Picture 84

Steven Cohan

7. Science Fiction, Genre Hybridity, and Canonization
in Classical Hollywood 97

Blair Davis

IV: Studio Labor and Operations

8. Hollywood: Promoting Collaboration 109
Charlie Keil and Denise McKenna
9. Disney, DuPont, and Faber Birren: Hollywood and the Color Revolution 118
Kirsten Moana Thompson
10. B-Film Production and Risk Management at Warner Bros.
in the Late 1930s 131
Kyle Edwards
11. Stocking the Stables: Universal-International's Talent
Development Program, 1949–56 143
Bradley Schauer

V: Rereading Race

12. Censoring Racism: The Production Code and Hollywood's Chinese Americans 155
Philippa Gates
13. Signifying Excess: The African American Specialty
Number and the Classical Musical 169
Ryan Jay Friedman
14. Dark Desires and White Obsessions: Sam McDaniel
as a Marker of Blackness in Double Indemnity (1944)
and Ice Palace (1960) 178
Charlene Regester
15. Incursions in the Forbidden Zone: Genre and the Black Science Fiction Film 189
Barry Keith Grant

VI: Women at Work

16. Doing Her Bit: Women and Propaganda in World War I 201
Liz Clarke

17. Genres of Production and the Production of Genre: Gender, Genre, and Technical Labor in the Arthur Freed Unit	211
Helen Hanson
18. Gene Tierney, “Troubled Beauty”: Star Labor, Mental Health, and Narratives of Recuperation	222
Will Scheibel
VII: Classicism after the Studio Era
19. MGM: Landmarks in the Decline of a Major Hollywood Studio	233
Tino Balio
20. Rethinking Altman as Anticlassical: The Modulation of Classical Narrative Norms in The Gingerbread Man (1998) and Gosford Park (2001)	241
Lisa Dombrowski
21. Scripting Protocols and Practices: Screenwriting in the Package-Unit Era	254
Janet Staiger
VIII: New Approaches
22. The Trade Papers and Cultures of 1920s Hollywood	267
Eric Hoyt
23. The Video Essay and Classical Hollywood Studies	280
Patrick Keating
24. Institutions of the Mode of Production and The Classical Hollywood Cinema in Contemporary Media Studies	287
Paul Monticone
25. New Cinema History and the Classical Hollywood Cinema	300
Richard Maltby
Selected Bibliography	309
Contributors	319
Index	329